INFORMATION THAT NEEDS TO BE PROVIDED TO THE CUSTOMERS AT RESTAURANTS AND CAFÉS

The seller or supplier of foodstuff is responsible for the correct labeling of the items. This release will provide general information on the labeling of non-prepacked foods in restaurants and cafeterias.

NON-PREPACKAGED FOODS, WHICH INFORMATION AND HOW THE INFORMATION NEEDS TO BE PROVIDED

In restaurants, the foodstuffs are almost without exception non-prepackaged foods, which are generally subject to the following labeling requirements.

Non-prepacked foods are foods that are
- served to the consumer for immediate consumption,
- packaged in the restaurant for immediate sales, e.g., take away-products
- packaged by the consumer, e.g. the customer packs a salad portion from a salad bar
- packaged at the request of the customer.

The following information needs to be provided about the non-prepacked foodstuffs:
- Name of the food
- Ingredients and products that cause allergic reactions or intolerance
- Country of origin of meat that has been used in the food (fresh and frozen beef, pork, lamb, goat and poultry meat)
- Country of origin, if the foodstuff is produced outside of Finland

The information should be provided as follows:
- In bilingual municipalities, it is recommended that the information is given in both Finnish and Swedish
- In writing in the close proximity of the non-prepacked foodstuffs either in a brochure or on a blackboard
- The information can be given verbally if the consumer is informed in writing that they can get more information from the staff. For example:

"Hyvä asiakkaamme, lisätietoja elintarvikkeista saa henkilökunnalta."
"Dear Customer, you can get more information about the foodstuffs from the staff."

- The origin of the meat, needs to be notified in writing. There is separate instruction “Mandatory country-of-origin labelling of meat at restaurants and cafés”.
- The information that needs to be provided must be available in writing or electronically in the restaurant or café.
• A description of how and where information about allergens can be found must be included in the in-house control plan.
• Separate notification is not required in cases where the specific nutritional needs of the consumer have been identified in advance and the food has been prepared based on this information (e.g. kindergartens, schools, hospitals, elderly care, prisons).

PREPACKAGED FOODS

• In cases where foodstuffs are meant to be sold under a longer period, and they have been for example vacuum packed or in another way sealed so they can be stored longer, the foodstuffs are considered prepacked. Prepacked foodstuffs are packed already before the sales.
• If the restaurant delivers prepacked foodstuffs to another company for sales, they are considered prepacked. In the before mentioned cases the products need to bear the labeling required by the legislation.
